

Skit #8: Lord's Prayer—4th Petition

Dramatis Personae:

Bobby

Mom

BOBBY: Mom, I just saw the neatest commercial! There's this new toy out called "Superion: the Ultimate Transfigure®"! It can change from a robot into a working go-kart, a hang-glider, or a pocket calculator! It's so cool! I need it to complete my Transfigures® collection!

MOM: What about "Ultimore: the Greatest Transfigure in the Universe®" that you got last week?

BOBBY: Oh, well, that broke when I tried changing it from a bread machine into a wristwatch. Besides, it wasn't compatible with my electronic talking Nikes®, but Superion® is!

MOM: I think you'll live without it. You don't have enough space for all your stuff as it is. It's always laying on the floor in the living room, and by the way, you left Fragicon: the Glass Transfigure® laying on the floor, and I stepped on it. I still don't have all the shards out of my foot!

BOBBY: You broke Fragicon®? Well, then I have to have Superion! He's the only one who can defeat Megabot®!

MOM: I think you're confused about needs and wants. We need a home, food, and clothing. The list of things we want is a lot longer.

BOBBY: Fine, but I have all that "need" stuff! Now I need some of that "want" stuff!

MOM: I don't think you quite understand.

BOBBY: [Turning around and looking at the TV] Oh, mom! Look! It's the limited edition Dinoborg®! I need that, too!

MOM: [Sighs & shakes her head.]